

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Hugh Dubrulle (University of California, Santa Barbara) is a Professor at Saint Anselm College in Manchester, NH, where he teaches courses on Modern European and military history. For six years, he was a book review editor at H-CivWar. His forthcoming book, Ambivalent Nation: How Britain Imagined the American Civil War (2018), investigates how Britons understood the conflict and the ways in which their understandings influenced their discussions of race, politics, military affairs, and nationality.
