

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Laurence D. Schiller (Northwestern University) holds a Ph.D in East African History from Northwestern and has taught numerous courses there in African and American History, in addition to being the Head Fencing Coach for 38 seasons. Aside from his work in African history, he is the author of Of Sabres and Carbines: The Emergence of the Federal Dragoon (Danville, VA: Blue & Gray Education Society, 2001) and several other articles on Federal Cavalry. Now retiring from coaching, he is returning to work on two books, the first on the evolution of cavalry tactics on both sides in the Civil War, and the second, a regimental history of the 55th Illinois Infantry.
