

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Richard G. Williams, Jr. writes about Virginia history and the War Between the States. A former contributor to the Washington Times' Civil War column, he has also written numerous articles about the Civil War for newspapers, magazines, and journals. Williams also conducts historic tours of Lexington, Virginia. He co-produced the video series, Institute on the Constitution which won a national award from The Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. He also co-produced a documentary about Stonewall Jackson titled, Still Standing: The Stonewall Jackson Story. That film premiered at West Virginia University's Jackson's Mill in 2007. His writing and historical research involving the Confederacy earned him the Jefferson Davis Historical Gold Medal from the United Daughters of the Confederacy—the highest honor bestowed upon non-members.

Williams is the author of Stonewall Jackson: The Black Man's Friend and has appeared on C-Span's Book TV. He currently serves on the board of trustees for the National Civil War Chaplains Museum in Lynchburg, Virginia. He also serves on the organizing committee which commemorates the Battle of Waynesboro (VA). Williams lives with his family in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley.
