

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

---

Michael A. Martorelli is in his 43rd year as a finance industry professional and 24th year as a Civil War reenactor. His career has included roles in investment research, money management, and investment banking. He has also been an adjunct instructor and guest lecturer at several colleges and universities in the Philadelphia area. He currently teaches at Philadelphia University. Combining his interests in finance and history, Mr. Martorelli has written several articles and book reviews for Financial History, the Magazine of the Museum of American Finance. In February 2013 he wrote about Civil War Artillery for the Essential Civil War Curriculum. During the 1970s, he earned a BS in Business Administration and an MBA from Drexel University in Philadelphia. In 2011, he earned an MA in History from American Military University.