

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Glenn David Brasher (University of Alabama) is instructor of history at the University of Alabama. A native of Birmingham, Alabama, he received his PhD from the University of Alabama. For eight years he was a seasonal park ranger at the Richmond National Battlefield Park where he gave tours on many of the historic sites associated with the Peninsula Campaign. He has also taught at Virginia Commonwealth University, and is a regular contributor to the New York Times "Disunion" series and to The Civil War Monitor magazine. In 2008 he was a finalist for the Southern Historical Association's C. Vann Woodward Award. His 2012 book, The Peninsula Campaign & the Necessity of Emancipation, won the 2013 Wiley-Silver Award from the Center for Civil War Research at the University of Mississippi.