

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Al Ronzoni received his Bachelor of Arts degree in History from Boston College and his Master's degree, also in History, from the C.W. Post Campus of Long Island University, graduating from both institutions with honors. He is a past president and board member of the Greater Astoria Historical Society, a frequent lecturer on topics including Abraham Lincoln, Boss Tweed and the Civil War and co-creator of the Society's monthly History Roundtable program, which has just completed a five-year series of events and exhibitions on the Civil War. In addition, Mr. Ronzoni has served as a Speaker in the Humanities and Scholar-Facilitator for the New York Council for the Humanities. His lectures for the Speaker's program include: The Might of the Pen: the New York Press and the Shaping of Northern Public Opinion in the Civil War. He has also worked as a freelance reporter and local history columnist for the Western Queens Gazette.
