

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

David J. Gerleman teaches courses on the Civil War, nineteenth century America, and world history at George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. He is a leading expert on nineteenth century cavalry and received his Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1999. He served for a decade as an Assistant Editor with the Papers of Abraham Lincoln spearheading the search and digitization of Lincoln records at the National Archives in Washington, D.C. Dr. Gerleman has also worked with the Congressional Research Service and the Society of the Cincinnati. He has received post-doctoral fellowships from the U.S. Military Historical Institute, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and the Gilder-Lehrman Institute of American History. He resides in Alexandria, Virginia.