

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Susan Deily-Swearingen (University of Massachusetts Dartmouth) is a lecturer and researcher of African American History, Southern History, and the Civil War. Her first monograph, Rebel Rebels: Race, Resistance, and Remembrance in the Free State of Winston, is being published by the University Press of Kentucky/ New Directions in Southern History Series. In addition to her work at the University of Massachusetts, Susan has taught at Cornell University, Brown University, the University of New Hampshire, and the Clemente Course in the Humanities. Most recently Susan was a member of the inaugural class of Emerging Voices Fellows with the American Council of Learned Societies.