

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Chuck Hamilton graduated University of Tennessee at Chattanooga in 1985 with a Bachelor's of Science in political science and a minor in history as well as in psychology and in religion. For Chuck the study of history is an avocation rather than a professional vocation, his areas of interest being the local history of the Tennessee-Alabama-Georgia tri-state area, the history of the Cherokee, religious history, Scottish and Irish history, and the history of Iran, particularly in the later twentieth century. He maintains a blog of eclectic subject matter that currently has 307 articles, some entries of which are quite lengthy, called Notes from the Ninth Circle. He writes essays for a local online paper and a few other venues with a more global audience.