

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Patricia L. Richard is currently an associate professor of history at Metropolitan State University of Denver. She received her B.A. from Greenville College in Greenville, Illinois, an M.A. from the University of San Diego, and a PhD from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. She is the author of Busy Hands: Images of the Family in the Northern Civil War Effort (New York: Fordham University Press, 2003).