

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Lawrence A. Kreiser, Jr., is an associate professor of history at Stillman College in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. A native of Cleveland, Ohio, he received his BA from the Virginia Military Institute, his MA from Bowling Green State University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Alabama. His books include: Defeating Lee: A History of the Second Corps, Army of the Potomac (Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 2011); Voices of Civil War America: Contemporary Accounts of Daily Life (Westport, CT: Greenwood Publishing Group/ABC-CLIO, 2011; coedited with Ray B. Browne); and The Civil War in Popular Culture: Memory and Meaning (Lexington: University Press of Kentucky, 2014; coedited with Randal Allred). He currently is working on a study of newspaper advertising during the Civil War.